

HIGHER TECHNICIAN IN NETWORK SYSTEMS MANAGEMENT

The Student with this degree will have acquired the General Competence to configuring, administrating and maintaining computer systems, guaranteeing system functionality, integrity of resources and services, with the required quality and complying with the current legislation.

The Higher Technician in Computer Network Systems Management works in the area of computer science within companies that have data management systems and network infrastructures (intranet, internet and/or extranet).

The most relevant occupations or jobs for Higher Technician in Network Systems Management

- Systems management technician
- Person in charge of computer science
- Internet service technician
- Electronic messaging services technician
- Help and technical support staff
- Remote assistance technician
- Database management technician
- Network technician
- System supervisor
- Telecommunication services technician
- Web environment technician